Flutist, composer, and bandleader Rhonda Larson entered the national music scene from her native Montana by winning first prize in the 1985 National Flute Association's Young Artist Competition.

Shortly thereafter, Rhonda joined the Paul Winter Consort, initiating her journey of combining diverse musical styles in addition to her classical training. Rhonda won a Grammy Award during her last year with the Consort.

Composing much of her own repertoire, Larson continues to be recognized as a visionary force creating hybrid music for the flute, including her versatility on an array of ethnic flutes from around the world. Larson musical journeys have taken her to South Africa, Russia, Japan, Europe, and other parts of the world. Recently Rhonda taught flute for nine months at the Edward Said National Conservatory of Music in Ramallah, Palestine (West Bank).

You can learn more about Rhonda from her website at: www.RhondaLarson.com
